

Early estimates of net national product of Japan:

any hints for GDP research on China?

Alternative estimates of NNP in pre-war Japan (in million yen, at current prices)

Natural log

Sources

Kinzo Nakamura, “Teikoku jinmin no shotoku (Meiji 33 nen) [Imperial citizens’ income for 1900],” Tokei shushi [Collected statistical papers], No. 255, June 1902, pp. 274-279.

Tetsutaro Yamashita, “Wagakuni furyoku no chosa [A survey of wealth power of our nation],” Toyo keizai shimpo [Oriental express magazine], Nos. 378-79, June 1903.

Naikaku Tokei Kyoku [Bureau of Statistics, Prime Minister’s Office], Taisho 14 nen ni okeru kokumin shotoku [National income in 1925], Tokyo, 1928.

Shigeyoshi Hijikata, Kokumin shotoku no kosei [Compositions of national income], Tokyo: Nihon Hyoron Sha, 1933.

Yuzo Yamada, Nihon kokumin shotoku suikei shiryō [Estimation materials for Japanese national income], Tokyo: Toyo Keizai Shimpo Sha, 1951.

Kazushi Ohkawa and Miyoei Shinohara, Patterns of Japanese economic development, a quantitative appraisal, New Haven, Ct.: Yale University Press, 1979.